A Valiant Million

"What is the news?" The world asks it each day, and the newspapers answer. We become used to wonderful things, including the fact that we can look over our coffee cup into Peking, Rome, Paris, Geneva, Washington, Chicago and Timbuctoo.

Pitcher apparently carries the prize, and will be elected Governor of Pennsylvania. "Practical Politics" shakes its head and feels like a British prize fighter after the first round with Carpenter.

"Harding to confer with steel men." Judge Cary, 53-year-old and others will dine at the White House and hear in choice Presidential language the advice, "Go easy, boys."

Channey Dupew is decorated with the French Legion of Honor in honor of his eighty-eighth birthday and his friendship for France.

Young men hanging to the skirts of older, rich men remember Dupew's advice: "Make your own career. Don't tie yourself to any rich man. He will use you and give you as little as he dare, that you may not be independent of his son, and therefore have to work for him, too."

When Napoleon invented the Legion of Honor he said he would put that red ribbon on the chest of any radical and make him a good imperialist. He didn't imagine that the French republicans would be using the little red ribbons to reward men that helped finish an emperor.

Trade springs eternal, but often fails flat. A lady spends a thousand dollars advertising for "a valiant million" and attracts a million dollars to save nothing from advertising. She says she, to fight the miners with hunger. So it is, and cowardly, to count on men yielding when they see their wives and children hungry.

But there is little sentiment in industry, and less, as a rule, in the individual able to give millions. When a man has earned enough to shake a million business sentiment in the process.

Workmen must solve their own problems, fight their own fight, win their victories. Three millions, men, women, children, are involved in the coal strike. A million dollars would give one-third cents for one day's work, but much help there. But there is little help in knowledge and in united action. Both will come, but not soon.

A Shakespeare first sold yesterday in London for $45,000, a record price, and cheap. Any man who has the money, any man with a brain worth the trouble to develop it, can get more than forty-three thousand out of Shakespeare. If there is anything in him at all.

The first lot of the worth he has, as much as a complete modern edition such as W. R. Hearst published and sold for $1,500, making him a loss of many a copy.

Morric's greatest race horse, winner of twelve races, without a defeat, is "quiet, calm, obedient, level-headed." That is because he doesn't know he is a champion. Therefore hasn't a swelled head.

Many men would go farther if it were possible to keep from them news of their accomplishments. They become intoxicated with trivial accomplishment and never go farther. That's their trouble.

The really great humbly underestimates themselves. I don't know how I may appear to the world, but to myself I seem to have been only a boy playing on the seashore and diverting myself in now and then finding a smoother pebble or a prettier shell than ordinary, whilst the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before me.

That was said by Newton, greatest intellect ever known to this earth. Contrast that with the discourse of the literary man inflated with his own importance based on nothing.

Thomas P. Ryan, very wise, bought the best race horse, and paid $15,000. He knows the value of a great father and mother. Just before also what from teaches us, that quality comes from the mother. The children of Morric's sister will very likely be more than Morric's own children, if he has any. The mother does the credit.

A woman whose husband was killed by an automobile got a verdict yesterday for $15,000 damages. Automobile owners don't too particular about their driving, or that of their chauffeurs, because they are "insured," take notice. Such a verdict, or one twice as big, makes a fifteen thousand-dollar policy look feeble.

BATTLE IN NORTHEAST STORE

Raiders Greeted With Milk Bottles, Mops and Monkey Wrenches

Monkey wrenches, mops, milk bottles, a smallatchet, the handle of an ice cream freezer and a forty-five caliber revolver figured today in a lively fight between two policemen of the vice squad and Mr. and Mrs. Gennaro Lee, proprietors of a small store on Commercial street.

The police say the woman did the lion's share of the fighting.

The trouble began when the officers, pursuing a man, entered the store and bought some liquor.

When they reached their destination Lee was running with a revolver from the cash register, but was disarmed by Bird before he could do any execution.

Then his deadly better half went into action, leading off with a mop the led in her hand, and following in order with the milk bottles, the monkey wrench, the hatchet and the handle of the ice cream freezer.

It was the busy day for the vice squad, by the way, for when Patricia Thomas J. Murphy tried to Continued on Page 5, Column 7.

MISCONDUCT CHARGE FOUND NOT PROVEN BY COMMITTEE

Supreme Court Justice Edward P. Pierce was today exonerated of charges of misconduct in office by the legislative investigating committee, which recently held a hearing on the petition of Attorneys George L. Poland and Loring P. Jordan for the judge's removal.

The justice was accused of conspiring with Attorney W. Edwin Ulmer to keep the latter in control of the Henry Wood estate and with receiving more than $1,000 worth of roses, firewood and vegetables from the lawyer.

In their report the eleven members of the committee agree that Judge Pierce was in no way guilty of a conspiracy and did not at any time use the power of his office to advance Mr. Ulmer's personal interests.

"WAS INDISCREET." "At the most it may be said," the committee's report concludes, "the judge's receipt of the gifts was indiscreet and unfortunate from the public point of view."

The committee states that evidence was shown that the judge had received the gifts with reluctance and had often urged Mr. Ulmer to stop sending them. It also was shown that the judge never had any idea of the exact value of the gifts.

"He was informed by Ulmer," the report says, "that they were of little value and could well be afforded by the company."

The report continues that the judge had a perfect right to consult with Mr. Ulmer in regard to business matters and declared the Legislature had no desire to create a "censorious judiciary."

OPPOSES CLOSTERING. "It is not the purpose of the Legislature," says the report, "to ask our Supreme Court judges to ban cloistered lives, touching to human affairs save as they filter through into the courtroom."

"We don't propose that the benefit of their learning, experience and judgment shall be withheld from friends and reserved only for litigants in court."

The committee finds that throughout the case Judge Pierce's conduct was for the "best interests of the parties concerned."

"Nothing has been shown to indicate that the judge's attitude toward Mr. Ulmer would have been any different than it was even had no gifts been sent," the committee adds.

"If all his dealings his aim was to assist the heirs of the whole estate."

JUDGE PIERCE IS EXONERATED OF MISCONDUCT CHARGES

REPORT IS MADE ON INQUIRY

Heur M. Holmes, convicted of robbing papers stolen from the office of Daniel H. Coakley, for a re-hearing of the case.

The opinion, written by Judge Jenner, found fault with Judge Pierce's decision of the trial jury for failing to instruct the jury not to heed the argument of Attorney John P. Perry, special attorney for the state, but adds that this error is not sufficient to warrant the granting of a new trial to the accused.

"As this was not done, there was error entitling the defendant to a new trial," says the opinion.

Men Would Break in Jails to Follow Girls, Says Judge

Lawrence, May 18.—"In all such cases as this that I have tried I have never believed that the girl was solely to blame. I believe that if all the girls in the world were locked up in jail some of you men would break in to get at them."

With these words Judge Lewis S. Cox warned Francis Landers, accused by fifteen-year-old Marie Cantana, that his next appearance in court would mean jail.

The girl was sentenced to Lancaster as a stubborn child. When she heard the sentence she broke away from the officers and tried to throw herself from a second-floor window, but was caught.

CHAMBER MEMBERSHIP DRIVE NETS BIG TOTAL

Today's one-day membership drive of the Boston Chamber of Commerce had netted more than half of the required 1,000 new names when the workers gathered at the Copple-Pink at noon for luncheon. The reports showed 541 enrolled by the twelve groups at work.

MOTHER OF 4 PAROLED BY COURT

Combined pleas of her husband and police officers today won leniency for Mrs. Anna Brennan, of No. 2485 Washington street, Roxbury, mother of four children, when she faced Judge Ahearn in Roxbury Court on four charges of shoplifting in downtown stores.

She was found guilty, given a year in the House of Correction and then released on parole for two years.

"I believe a prison sentence should hang over your head just to keep you going straight," stated that court. "I believe that will stop your tendency to corrupt your own children. I am doing this for your husband."

While the mother was before Judge Ahearn, her fourteen-year-old daughter, Helen, was in Juvenile Court for alleged theft. The girl was acquitted.

Police and store detectives had been picking up department stores for several weeks. They claimed she employed her daughter Helen and a younger son as clerks in her predatory activities.

Mrs. Brennan was finally caught by store detectives who trailed her home.

Spends 3 Million, End Is Not Yet in Sight

Washington, May 18.—Representative Ben Johnson, of Kentucky called the attention of the House to what he termed is the record "loitering on a job."

The Canadian Boundary Commission, he said, was created in 1810, just 112 years ago, for the purpose of surveying the boundary line between the United States and Canada. It has spent more than $1,000,000 and still is not in sight of the end.

Representative Walsh of Massachusetts suggested that "maybe they are perambulating up and down to see if the line is still there."

Mr. Johnson said: "They have made of this job the best holiday proposition in the world. In the winter they go South and in the summer they go North."

A detective who trailed her home a quantity of alleged loot was found in her house.

The woman pleaded guilty to the charges against her and submitted to her husband was pleading for her release on probation.

STATE PROBE IN MILL STRIKE DEMANDED

President Thomas F. McMahon of the United Textile Workers of America today declared that the mill owners in this State were attempting to drive 165,000 operatives back to old conditions of starvation "when the carpet was a stranger to the floor and the piano in the corner was a luxury to which workmen and women must not aspire."

President McMahon declared to the House Rules Committee of the Legislature that the 10 per cent. cut in pay ordered by the mills will force workers to live under conditions that would be a disgrace to the State.

"Our desire," he declared, "is to arbitrate. There is no question of hours in dispute merely the question of wages."

WILLING TO ARBITRATE.

"We are willing to sit down at the arbitration table, to present our case and abide by the decision of any fair tribunal. The facts show that a 20 per cent. cut is necessary. We will accept it."

Supported by a delegation of American Federation of Labor officials and by Mayor Mahoney and the State government of Lawrence, President McMahon asked the Legislature to constitute a special commission for a sweeping investigation of the strike in Lawrence and in other textile centers.

Mr. McMahon said there are about 131,000 workmen and women in the textile and apparel industry in this State. If the pay cut would also extend if it is successful, to the woolen trade, affecting 30,000 more.

"Even today," he said, "those operating under such conditions that are not normal, according to American standards."

"There is a large body of citizens must exist on a stipend that is not sufficient to enable them to obtain conditions which the American government declares to be necessary. It is time for an investigation to be made in this good old Commonwealth which has always been the first to lead in the making of progressive labor laws."

"We are prepared to show that every pound of cotton, including all charges for manufacturing, transportation and overhead expenses, will yield a reasonable profit without the 10 per cent. cut. It will not yield the bonuses of war, but it will yield a fair return on a hard labor return that at any time prior to 1914."

"If competition is deadly, we workers people fail to understand how a business can prosper against itself. We also dispute the statement that Southern labor is more efficient."

"We are prepared to show to an investigating body the names and residences of the directors who control all the mills. We will also show that some of the mills in their effort to conceal actual earnings, have loaded down the mills with non-producers whose wages are pretty near equal to that of the producers."

"No American objects to a fair profit for capital invested. We object to any scheme which provides that the employee must take the entire reduction in order to retain for the owners the abnormal profits of the past."

He sought to show that in the five-year period ending with January, 1921, total sales of the Pacific Mills had been $144,000,000. That the expenses had been $22,000,000, leaving a balance of over $122,000,000.

He also declared the mill had averaged a net profit per year of 23.6 per cent.

Sends Strike Warning to Arlington Mills

Lawrence, May 18.—Ben Rogers of the One Big Union today sent a letter to Agent John T. Mercer of the Arlington mills, warning him that a strike may be declared against that plant.

The Arlington, with 7,000 employees, has been shut down for nearly eight weeks, but to wage cut has been announced there.

The grievance against the mill, according to Mr. Rogers, is that the Arlington is trying to break the strike in the Andover mill by having strike-breakers for the Andover go through the Arlington mill gates, thus avoiding the pickets.

He asks for a conference on the subject to see if the grievance can be "satisfactorily adjusted."

BORROWS YACHT FOR RACE AGAINST DEATH

New York, May 18.—Racing against death, on a borrowed yacht driven at top speed from Manhattan, Abbot J. Dorn, New York attorney, arrived today with several relatives, was rushed to a hospital and operated upon for cancer an hour later.

BENZINE MOVED WHEN FAMILY FLEES "PLOT"

City and State police and State Chemist Walter L. Wedger today investigated the storing of 800 gallons of highly inflammable liquid in an unlicensed store at No. 54 New York street, Roxbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sherard, occupying the floor above, fled the house in sight after discovering the liquid, believing there was a plot to burn the place.

State Chemist Wedger announced the liquid was a mixture of benzine and oil, and had it removed to a safe place. The stuff is the property of the Anthony Brothers, Charlestown provision men. They told the police, over the telephone, it was used in the manufacture of a commercial product and was safe enough when tampered with.

Asked if there could be precautions in the careless storing of the dangerous liquid beneath a flat occupied by a family, Roxbury police said "nearly."

BOTTOMTUM PLEADS IN BOND FUND JUGGLING

London, May 18 (By International News Service)—Bottomtumple, M. P., former editor of the "John Bull," today entered a plea in the House of Commons that he was not guilty when arraigned in Old Bailey Court charged with misappropriating funds subscribed to the Victory Bond Club which he had formed.

Bottomtumple was well known to Americans through his anti-Americanism in the "John Bull." He formed the Victory Bond Club to enable persons to buy government bonds on the installment plan.

FATAL TO FARMER

Brooklyn, Ct., May 18.—John M. Bennett, a farmer, went into the woods today to hunt wild bees being stung while doing so. Today he collapsed and in an hour was dead.

Physicians could attribute only poison from bee stings as the cause of death.

Loot Methuen Garage While Policeman Looks On

Lawrence, May 18.—Police today were looking for a band of robbers who drove up to Henry Timon's garage, corner of East and Ashford streets, Methuen, forced in a door and stole $1,000 worth of tires and supplies, which they carried off in a motor truck.

A policeman passed the garage while the band was busy loading their loot out to the truck. He passed, gazed wonderingly at a moment, then questioned a hushy-sounding man he thought was boss of the job.

"Morris?" he asked, jokingly. The "boss" cautiously lit a cigarette, "used a puff and nodded."

"Up—up to Heaven!" he said. The policeman pursued his way. Ten minutes later the robbers whizzed out of town.

COOK INSISTED HIS WIFE LET HIM ALONE

Would Her She Would Make Herself Unwholesome to Him

The Boston American today contains publication of the last letter of Walter W. Cook, former Harvard instructor, to Mrs. Harriet Black Greenfield Cook, which runs his wife's divorce. He was travelling in Europe at her expense when they were written.

Paris. Dearest Sweetheart: "I don't know how far you are from me about your desire to get me and push me. Before we were married, you talked about how much you wanted to do for me, how much of a woman you wanted me to be, and whether it meant that you expected me to do what you think is best, or whether you are willing to back me up in what I know is best, remains to be seen.

Sometimes I think, although I know you love me to death, that your chief concern and interest in me is that you want a man in the house, someone to help you and work for you and your mother and Lyman. A glorified male housekeeper, and some one who would earn enough to support him.

LOVED TO DISTRACT." Of course, I loved you to distraction, as you know, but then it is your interest as much as mine that I publish books, and make a name for myself in the scholarly world. You will agree with me readily enough in that point, but when it comes to the divorce, you instantly want to step in and run things your way. I want to do it in the way I know best.

If, for instance, I say that after next year, I want to sell the house, move to France for two years, write books, as well as study and give you some European education, then return and go into the Metropolitan Museum, or to Harvard or to somewhere you will probably put up all kinds of opposition, and may balk and try to push me into something else which would absolutely ruin my career.

You have a way of knocking the head out of a man, of shortening his so much that he cannot do anything. I feel that way last night. I frankly gave up all work and did not care what happened so far as my work went. After being over here, and being told my courage has come back again. I am almost afraid to come home, however, for fear that when you land on me, with all your plans, troubles and tribulations, that you will knock all my ambition out of me.

That is why I have written you that in the house I can retire and be absolutely alone and untroubled. I want other people's things and the things mixed in with them. I want to live that free and liberty. Otherwise it is hell. I don't want to do anything I know what I can do and I am not going to deceive myself. That is why I can talk to you in plain English and tell you what I think so that you cannot misunderstand me.

I DO LOVE YOU." Just remember that this doesn't mean that I don't love you. I mean that I don't love you to pay attention to what I say and carry out and help me. Otherwise, I won't do anything and you will be the first one to suffer. You only hurt yourself and you will have only yourself to blame.

Once when I remarked that one day I hoped that Helen would turn up in Cambridge, so that she could help me in my work, you interpreted an expression I said that you didn't like the word because I would be able to push her. What were you driving at? I don't know. I mean it is a damned nonsense and I won't listen to it for a moment. If you had any wild ideas, that you had better drop them in quick time. If there is anything that I can't stand it is narrow-mindedness. It is too narrow for it, and whenever I see it, I knock it out as hard as I can. If there is anything that I love more than this, or at least if I show it, so much the worse for me.

I WANT HARMONY." Don't think, baby, that I want to be brutal, for that is not my temperament in the least. But you must wake up and know me. You won't be happy. I want harmony and anything less simply drives me wild. I have noticed a tendency on your part ever since we were married to try to cut me off from my friends, my family, etc. You may want to go to the Harvard Club, but I don't want to go to the Harvard Club, don't see me there. I have said what I want and admire me.

Well, if you want to make me

STAR AND WOMAN HE SHOULDN'T HAVE WED

VALENTINO AND MISS HUDNUT

This is the first photograph of Rudolph Valentino, noted leading man of the big movies and the woman he married before his divorce from his first wife became effective. This newspaper second wife is Natalia Romona, former dancer and director for Nanyou, who, in private life, is Miss Winifred Hudnut.

tired of you and to get out and leave you, that is the way to do it, and the quickest way. I give you enough of my time, but when you think that you can monopolize me, when you suppose that you can supplant and replace my friends, you make the gravest mistake of your life, and if you persist in these ideas you will make yourself thoroughly unwholesome to me.

Remember that no one will do anything in this world for you merely because you want them, except for your money. They will only do something for you when it is to their interest to do so. So when you ask anyone to do anything for you be sure that they think that they are going to get something out of it.

WHISTLE FOR FIDO." Now that will be the real test there, the general showdown. Either I am going to jump in and write books and make a name for myself, or I'm going to chuck the whole business for Fido.

Now I hope that you will take this letter in the spirit in which it is sent. Read it over carefully and read it often, because I have spent two days writing it, and it was no fun. My right hand is nearly paralyzed from pushing my pen over paper. I have written a lot, and I have said so much that I hope that I have covered all the principal points so that it won't

SHOULD FILMS BAR VALENTINO?

Should Rudolph Valentino, handsome moving picture star, idol of girl film fans the country over, be barred from the movies?

Valentino is a Nipponist. He married Winifred Hudnut while not legally divorced from his wife, Jean Acker Valentino, screen actress.

Should Valentino meet the fate of Fatty Arbuckle and Peggy Joyce, both barred from the movie world? Write your opinion to the M.P.I. Picture Editor, Boston American. Here are three letters already received.

Editor Boston American—I have followed with keen interest newspaper reports in the case of Rudolph Valentino, the film star. I see he is charged with bigamy in certain quarters because he married Winifred Hudnut, daughter of a wealthy perfume importer, before divorce from Jean Acker Valentino. But isn't it possible that this was done more to ignorance of legal procedure than to any intent to transgress the law? I don't think an admitting public wants to see a popular screen actor discredited or condemned because of these accusations. I think he is a victim of circumstance.

Providence, R. I. JANE EMEHSON.

MARY SHOWED WAY

Editor, Boston American—If we are not going to discard the last vestige of fair play, in our American interpretation of justice, we should protest the showing of films featuring Rudolph Valentino.

Mary Pickford and I am an admirer of Mary—pulled a trick in a divorce which showed the way to other members of the profession who were only waiting for someone to start the ball rolling so that they could break the laws that bind and destroy and fling their marital obligations to the winds.

One after another, leaving out a handful of except one—members of the movie profession have shown themselves devoid of honor and decency and bought the approval of acute jurists and a gullible public with their ill-gotten gains.

I should think that a disgusted America would demand that the movie profession clean up her clothes or get out of business. Patty Arbuckle, the "Tanner" murder, the illegal marriage—follow in number and all the principals are permitted a glory in their offences as though they consumed something deserving of the yards of publicity that drooling press agents write about them.

Is money going to buy immunity for Valentino as it has for his dishonorable colleagues?

CARLIS NATION, Jr.

WIFE WANTS PUBLICITY.

Editor, Boston American: It seems to me that this discussion of the affairs of the motion picture star Rudolph Valentino, is entirely uncalled for. His former wife, Jean Acker, is getting exactly what she after—publicity. A more or less unfavorable publicity in films, she feels that to get her name before the public will ensure her motion picture engagements. Doubtless it will. Peggy Joyce and Fanny Arbuckle have only set a precedent.

Miss Acker was the one who brought the cult for divorce against Valentino. Why, then, should she be so anxious concerning his actions as soon as she ceases to become his wife? The matter of whether or not Valentino is a Nipponist is purely a technical point of law. It has also been brought up in the Frank Mayo-Barnum Goddard marriage. Yet there has been little talk about it.

Valentino and Bride of Five Days Part

Los Angeles, Cal., May 18.—Winifred Hudnut, known professionally as Natalia Romona, who was married last Saturday at Hollywood, Lower California, to Rudolph Valentino, motion picture actor, has gone to New York. A number of persons accompanied her to the railroad station. In the group, according to Polynesian picture fans, was Valentino, who bids her farewell.

Thomas McCalland, deputy district attorney, who has been investigating the marriage of Valentino to Miss Hudnut, is quoted as stating he will present to Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney, a report that Valentino is liable to prosecution for bigamy "if he is in California or if he comes back to this state."

Jean Acker, motion picture actress, from whom Valentino wanted an interdictory decree of divorce last January and who, according to reports, has been in New York, remains his legal wife until a final decree is entered, was scheduled to tell the district attorney what she knows of the matter today.

The report was cut here today that the departure of Miss Hudnut for New York, where her father, Richard Hudnut, is a manufacturer of perfumes, followed an agreement between Valentino and that they would live apart until his divorce had been final and then would be remarried.

16 KILLED IN HOSPITAL FIRE IN ROME

Santo Spirito, Near Vatican, Founded in 12th Century, Swept by Flames

Rome, May 13 (By the Associated Press).—Fire swept the historic hospital of Santo Spirito, one of the most ancient and picturesque charitable institutions in Rome, early today.

Sixteen inmates have been recovered. Four other patients were badly burned, and one dangerously injured. The institution accommodates nearly 4,000 inmates, and includes a hospital, lunatic asylum, foundling home and a refuge for aged and infirm females.

SPREADS RAPIDLY. The fire started in the laundry. It spread rapidly to the neighboring wards, each containing thirty chronic sufferers or infirm patients, who were seated with patients.

Firemen rushed to the scene, but at the moment of their arrival, the electric lights were extinguished, adding to the horror.

As the immense wood beams of the hospital fell, there was a heavy grinding noise. Two of the chronic patients were trapped and access to several wards became impossible.

HEROIC RESCUES. Carabinieri, Royal Guards, nurses and doctors made heroic efforts to save the unfortunate, rushing through the smoke and fire. They brought out twelve, all of whom, however, were dead from suffocation. Several of the rescue parties were injured. Two wards were destroyed, but the firemen succeeded in saving the rest of the building.

The hospital of Santo Spirito is situated on the bank of the River Tiber, not far from the Vatican grounds.

It was founded by Pope Innocent III, in the twelfth century, enlarged by Innocent IV, in the next and rebuilt under Urban IV, in the fifteenth.

The altar in the hospital church was destroyed by Andrea Palladio, and is reputed to be the only work of this artist in Rome.

BRITISH MANDATE IS BLOCKED BY VATICAN. London, May 18 (By International News Service).—The League of Nations is withholding from Great Britain the proposed mandate for Palestine owing to objections from the Vatican. It was learned at the League office today. This is the first time the Vatican has intervened actively in international affairs since the war.

NEW RADIO HAS NO AERIAL ANTENNAE. Chicago, May 18.—A new type of radio receiving device without aerial, electrical power line connection or any existing apparatus, except several yards of wire tacked on the back of the cabinet which houses the set, was announced today by J. P. Messner, radio engineer.

Girl Who Tried to End Her Life by Turning on the Gas ENDS LIFE WITH GAS IN SOUTH END ROOM

One man is dead from gas poisoning and a woman is recovering at the city hospital after attempting suicide by inhaling illuminating gas.

Leslie Morris, 45 years old and single, was found dead with a gas tube in his mouth in his room at No. 145 Appleton street, South End. Mrs. Helen Lavelle, 37 years old, of No. 145 Appleton street, neighbor at a moving picture house, is the woman recovering from her suicide attempt.

Mrs. Helen Lavelle, mother of the girl and wife of the former Hotel Tennessee clerk who stole the hotel's $7,000 payroll and later surrendered, could not be reached for comment.

Morris' body was found after his neighbor had telephoned Leslie's father, the landlady, and asked if she was ill. Her body's door was locked. There was no response to her knocks and cries.

Police battering down the door found Morris sitting in a chair in his bathroom. A bed spread was thrown over his head and the gas tube in his mouth. He was dead.

Mrs. Lavelle had been twice married. Six years ago she was with the Cleveland Police of Connecticut. She then married John Lavelle, waiter in a Cambridge restaurant. The couple were apparently happy.

TWO FIRE CAPTAINS NAMED IN BROOKLINE. Willard W. Estabrook, fire commissioner of Brookline, today announced the promotion of two fire captains.

George B. H. Murray and Peter A. Mealy to be captain. The two men were with Miller in the car, according to his confession were Charles Dandakakis, alias "Poldack," and "Foster." Stanley person, one of the four persons of the Grand Jury today in connection with the police hunt for terrorists operating in protest against the Landis wage award.

Miller's confession was obtained, police say, when he was confronted with evidence connecting him with the slaying.

"Dandakakis and Stanley asked me to drive them around as they had a job on hand, and wanted to look the ground over," police say Miller's confession reads.

"They told me to drive them down to Twenty-second and Summer Streets. When we got there a policeman came up and stopped us. Dandakakis drew a gun and fired when he was being searched. We drove away, but a police car later drove up and ordered us to halt. Again Dandakakis fired.

"We deserted the car and I reported it stolen to the police."

Sees 'Nursitis' As Menace to Middle Class Children

New York, May 18.—Children of New York City's "lower middle class" are seriously afflicted with "nursitis," which threatens to spread to middle class children unless stopped in its course, Dr. Royal L. Copeland, city health commissioner declared today.

He explained that the disease was caused by dirty mothers giving their children too much to the care of nurses.

"Three times as many youngsters die yearly in the region of Central Park, Riverside Drive and Fifth Avenue, as down on the East Side and other less fashionable sections," he asserted.

Officers recently took examinations for promotion with four other lieutenants. Their new appointments take effect June 3, when Captain Murray will take charge of Station 12 and Captain Frank Pons, who has been in charge of Station 5, will return to command Station 1.

GAMBLING SUITS SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Providence, May 18.—The suits of Edward C. Bannan, New Bedford attorney, who alleges he lost a fortune in gambling palaces in Rhode Island against Charles L. Manchester and Michael J. Lynch, Providence attorney, have been settled out of court.

This was announced today by Judge Arthur L. Brown in United States District Court when he ordered them struck off the calendar.

Mr. Manchester was sued for $75,000. No amount of money was mentioned in the Lynch suit. The sum of the settlement was not made public. But from gambling sources it was learned that it was a comfortable sum.

Mr. Manchester was manager of the Plimpton Club of Cranston, the late Michael J. Slater's famous place known as the "respected gambling house in Rhode Island." Lynch was Slater's son-in-law.

He was famous as an athlete while in Brown. It is said that his political ambitions prompted the settlement of the suit, the publicity of which if it went to trial would have been disastrous.

Following the announcement of the Lynch-Manchester settlement, Judge Brown set a date two weeks from today for hearing Attorney Bannan's suits for $75,000 each.

The lawyer's suits against Frank L. Murray and James E. Moran, owners of the famous Hippity Inn at East Greenwich, and John F. Hennessy of East Providence, were passed today and will not reach court before the Fall term.

CURLEY ATTACK ON ALLEN IN "L" DECISION

In a statement in which he attacks the opinion of Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, upholding the validity of the Public Control Act of 1918, Mayor Curley today announced that he would continue his fight for a five-cent fare for Boston.

"I cannot believe," he declares in his statement, "that the opinion of the attorney-general will be accepted as the last word on the question of the mayor's right."

"I am not a lawyer and therefore cannot say with authority that the attorney-general's opinion is not law, but I am certain that it is not justice."

In another part of the statement the mayor says: "Mr. Sherman Whipple is in New York. When he returns I shall confer with him respecting the opinion of the Attorney General."

"I trust that some way will be found to test the validity of the Public Control Act, that is to determine whether an act tainted by fraud is as good as one not so tainted. But if no way can be found then the legislature should be forced to provide a remedy against legislation which has been procured by fraud and corruption, and should act before the present session is over."

The Mayor also retorted to the State House, Boston.

Curley's attack on Allen's opinion of the Public Control Act of 1918, which upholds the validity of the Public Control Act of 1918, was made in a statement in which he attacks the opinion of Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, upholding the validity of the Public Control Act of 1918, Mayor Curley today announced that he would continue his fight for a five-cent fare for Boston.

"I cannot believe," he declares in his statement, "that the opinion of the attorney-general will be accepted as the last word on the question of the mayor's right."

"I am not a lawyer and therefore cannot say with authority that the attorney-general's opinion is not law, but I am certain that it is not justice."

In another part of the statement the mayor says: "Mr. Sherman Whipple is in New York. When he returns I shall confer with him respecting the opinion of the Attorney General."

"I trust that some way will be found to test the validity of the Public Control Act, that is to determine whether an act tainted by fraud is as good as one not so tainted. But if no way can be found then the legislature should be forced to provide a remedy against legislation which has been procured by fraud and corruption, and should act before the present session is over."

The Mayor also retorted to the State House, Boston.

LODGE PLAYED AT INDIA MEETING

Faring Senator Lodge and speaker of the House Gilbert, "supremacy of British India," "Tarknath Das International Secretary of the Friends of Freedom for India, was cheered by 140 men and women at the English High School.

"Is the name of America I ask you to defeat these men?" he declared. "Habit strong men to oppose them and make their British virtues be their political death knell."

"Senator Lodge has worked for years for an Anglo-American alliance and with his successful advocacy of the minority four power pact he has partly reached his goal. In ten years Britain will have been discredited and will be ready to do what it is physically impossible for her to do."

"Senator Lodge has ever walked hand in hand with British imperialism. He fights as a characterist Britisher against the freedom of any people. If you love India, India or any country, you must be ready to fight him."

"Das declared that only those who are willing to permit profitless bloodshed in text books may become president of any large American university. He surprised his hearers by 'cutting short' his address to call upon all present to adjourn to the anti-Lodge mass meeting in Faneuil Hall.

4 DEAD, MANY WOUNDED IN BELFAST

Says Now That Summer Is Here You Should Make Up to Your Neighbor, as You Might Want to Borrow His Lawn Mower

Now that Summer is here it is hard to forget any grievances you may have against your neighbors, especially if they've got an automobile. Why have hard feelings toward anybody who owns a small machine?

Put your pride in your pocket; unless you want to ride on the street car.

Don't be sore at the people next door unless you want to buy a lawn mower of your own.

Of course, if they haven't got an automobile of a lawn mower there's no reason in making up with them.

There's no use in being friendly with anybody you can't get any thing out of.

Some people expect you to like them, if they haven't got anything to lend you.

That isn't friendship; it's egotism.

If you've got anything you need on a lucky, because then you don't have to speak to anybody.

To be absolutely sure it's a good idea to be friendly with the neighbor all year round, because you need a lot of things in winter the same as you do in summer.

Washington, May 18.—Transportation matters, including possible rate reductions, head the list of subjects that it is thought will be discussed at the White House dinner tomorrow, to which President Harding is invited.

THREE NINETIES CHECK ON SOFT WIN DOLLAR COAL PRICES AGREED ON

Washington, May 18.—Secretary Hoover obtained today the approval of the leading operators of non-union bituminous coal fields for a government plan of getting the coal industry by voluntary action to put a stop point on increase of coal prices during the period of the coal strike.

The plan, approved by about forty operators who met with Mr. Hoover, calls for the creation of a committee of operators with government and consumers' representatives serving on it in each district where coal is being produced, through which all orders for coal will be cleared. A similar general committee will be set up in Washington.

Mr. Hoover assured the coal operators that he had Attorney General Daugherty's opinion that such cooperative action to reduce and hold down prices in the public interest would be treated.

This is No. 2 of a series of Rinso endorsements from the leading washing machine manufacturers of this country

The Coffield Washer Co.
Dayton, Ohio

Lever Brothers Company, Cambridge, Mass.

Gentlemen: After testing various soaps we are advising our agents to use Rinso in demonstrating the Coffield.

The most important question for the prospective buyer is "Are the clothes washed clean?" The loads washed with Rinso were so clean that they did not have to be touched again. With some soaps the machine had to be operated a much longer time to get the best results.

When water is evenly impregnated with pure soap solution a washing machine can do its best work. This is only possible with a soap that dissolves completely as Rinso does.

Tried out over a period equivalent to seven years' weekly use Rinso did not corrode or injure the machine in any way. It can be used with absolute safety. Garments were not weakened by prolonged washings with Rinso.

Very truly yours,
THE COFFIELD WASHER COMPANY

J. H. Coffield
President

Makers of the noted Coffield Washer advise their demonstrators to use Rinso

WASHING machine manufacturers realize that the reputation of their washers can be injured by using the wrong soap.

After making exhaustive tests the makers of the Coffield and the other leading washing machine manufacturers of the country are recommending Rinso for the family wash.

Rinso has more cleansing power than is possible in bar soaps. This is why it is taking the place of bar soap at every step of the family wash.

When you put your clothes to soak Dissolve Rinso in boiling water—use enough to get big lasting suds. Then, let your clothes soak an hour or more—overnight if you like—(colored clothes only half an hour). Soaking in big lukewarm Rinso suds softens the dirt.

In any washing machine Use enough Rinso solution to make a heavy suds. Operate your machine from 10 to 15 minutes. Rinso is the ideal soap for machine washing.

If you boil Boiling isn't necessary, but if you like to boil your white cottons, pour enough Rinso solution in the boiler to give you the suds you like.

Rinso is made by the largest soap makers in the world. It comes in the regular size and the big new package. Get it today at grocery and department stores everywhere. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

HOWEVER YOUR WASHING IS DONE: The same qualities that make Rinso an ideal soap for a washing machine make it the best soap you can use however you do the family wash.

CUBS EXPECT TO CONTINUE SLAUGHTER OF OR WARRIORS

DRIVES FACE ANOTHER TOUGH BIRD TODAY

Chicago, Ill., May 13.—Another batch of bad news awaits the Braves when they face forth to the Cub Park this afternoon for their second battle with Bill Killefer's brains.

The North side tactician announced at morning practice that he would assign Grover Cleveland Alexander to the firing line against the Mephemans, and as the veteran right-hander hasn't won a victory in his last four starts he is in a real test to the victory column at the expense of the Tribe. Joe Oeschger is slated to duel with Alex.

Inability to solve the southpawing of Percival Les Jones proved disastrous to the Braves yesterday. The Cub portender was wild in spots but he usually tightened up when danger hovered about him. He was riddled for a total of seven blows, three coming together in the sixth inning when two runs scored and another chapter of three in the ninth producing the final marker for the Braves. Only one blow was struck against Jones' flinging in the first five innings. His wildness consisted of losing five passes.

Cuba Blast McQuillan from Turret in Fourth
Handsome Hughey McQuillan started against Killefer's machine but was blasted from the turret in the fourth inning when four wallop and three passes came together in the evasions of five runs.

Johnny Killefer of Brookline led in the bombing by cracking a single to center. Grimes and Friberg scolded clanging the path, then Barber singled to left boosting Killefer and Grimes across the plate. Terry immediately singled again conquering the circuit, whereupon O'Farrell rammed a single over and and Friberg passed Barber over the plate. Jones sacrificed and blast walked for the third time leading the bases.

At this juncture Mitch derelicted Handsome Hughey and shunted Lanning, a rookie right hander in to the breach. Ford ducked out Killefer and Terry scored, the riot subsiding when Killefer up for the second time, lifted to Powell.

Lanning then turned in a swell ex. Exhibition of hurling for three rounds, spilling the Braves with another blow until the eighth, when a single by Grimes, followed by Friberg's sacrifice and a single by Terry produced the final Cub marker.

After assembling the new wallop in the first five innings, the Braves stepped out and counted two runs to the sixth on a single by Smith, double by Nicholson, single by Bonfield, and Holke's sacrifice fly by right.

PLESTINA IS FAVORED IN BIG BOUT

By RINGDINE.

Martin Plestina, considered by many wrestling experts as the world's champion, will be a 10 to 1 betting choice for his handicap match with George Calia, Italian heavyweight champion, which will be staged at the Grand Opera House tonight. The "man" element figures that Calia is being rushed ahead too fast. They point to the fact that Jimmy Lewis, Joe Steker and Jack Laddock have refused to meet Plestina.

It will be a 90 minute match to night. If Plestina fails to win Calia, within this time limit, he will forfeit $1000. He will also have to give Calia an additional $1000 if the Italian champion scores a fall.

Those persons who are acquainted with Plestina's record, do not believe he is in danger of losing any money. They figure that he will be able to score a couple of falls within 10 minutes. One well known local middle weight wrestler, who has engaged in gym bouts with most of the headlines, is authority for the statement that it takes hardly thirty minutes to throw him, Calia twenty, Brumley, Lewis ten and Plestina five.

All of which, according to this chapter, should mean an easy victory for Plestina.

BOSTON "Y" HAS MEET WITH TECHNOLOGY '25
The Boston Y. M. C. A. will have a strong list of athletes in its dual meet with the Tech Freshmen on the Tech Field Saturday afternoon.

L. Smith, Brown, Torrey, Coombs, Elen, Gray and Linnis are expected to participate in the 100 yard dash, and the mile run will probably bring out Lowmeyer, Derrig, Denby, W. Smith, Irving, Blum and Meseroux.

Brookline High has a big race later in the week. The first race for four-oared shells will start at the Cottage Farm Bridge at 4 P. M. and race to the Harvard Bridge.

Noble and Greenough, Huntington, Lynn English, Lynn Classical, Browne and Nichols and Choate School, Noble and Greenough, "New Academy, Browne & Nichols, Cambridge Latin and Hingde are the starters. The Connecticut boys were that race in masterly style and have it to be feared from their opponents today. The Yale Challenge Cup is the trophy offered to the first shell to cross the finish line in this race. Noble and Greenough have a very excellent entry entered for this affair as has Browne and Nichols.

Huntington has not come up to expectations in this spring preliminary racing and is not expected to show much form.

PRESENTS SOX CLASH WITH BROWNS

By NICK FLATLEY.
The well-known weather hoped in today and stopped the Red and Brown boxes from continuing their merry way.

The Sox took a long rest, because they figure they are well on their way to the first division, and don't like to pass in the journey.

Serious business of getting the big battle on the home stand, and climbing up in the race before the trip westward begins now occupies the minds of the locals.

Thus far at home the Sox have been at and lost five, and but for the disaster that accompanied the Tigers' hitler would now be well up in the scramble. Getting licked by the Tycoons is very popular now, so the locals need have no very burning regrets.

The Browns took a good as any ball club that has flitted across the horizon this Spring, and licking them once, plus chasing them into extra chapters on the other collision has paved up things considerably around Fenway Park.

Counts as Much as a Real Clean-Out Victory
Getting a game on errors isn't the most thrilling way toward victory, but it counts as much as a clean-out victory in the percent-ages. Incidentally, it inspires a team to keep on trying.

Young McQuillan's actual experience of the hopeless pastime turned into sudden triumph. Young McQuillan took the Sox in a condol with an account of his fair of boobies, but criticism of a player because of a mechanical error is exceedingly foolish and unfair.

The best of them bobbled the ball once in a while. The youthful Brown has been playing a sensational game all Spring, and it was just the luck of the game that made his misplay fatal out yesterday.

Browns Aren't the Sort That Will Curl Up
The Browns aren't the sort of a team that will curl up because of a defeat or two, rather they act like a bunch that a few triumphs might lead to real deeds.

Herbie Pennock was ready to hurt this P. M., and in his recent form, the little southpaw is about as easy to beat as a hard-boiled egg. He usually has been effective against the visitors, who have record of their kind wrapped up in left-handed hitters.

Bill Bayne, who has been performing splendidly for Sox, was nominated to quell the snappy Sox misdeeds.

SCHOOLBOYS SHOWING INTEREST IN TENNIS

There seems to be more interest among the schoolboys in tennis this year than ever before. The Harvard Intercollegiate which will be held at the end of the month is the biggest event for the schoolboys. Browne and Nichols, Huntington School, Brookline High, Middleton School, English High, Milton Academy, Essex Academy and Andover Academy are expected to show up strongly in the Harvard tournament.

Bay State Schools First

Prestige of Our Institutions Upheld at Dartmouth by Graduates of Somerville and Watertown

The Greater Boston High Schools of Somerville and Watertown graduated the scholars who won for their respective alma maters the first and second highest places in group scholarship at Dartmouth College in the year's opening semester, according to announcements just received. The Dartmouth Plaque is awarded annually to the school whose three or more students in the freshman class at Hanover stand highest in their studies. Four Somerville High boys this year led the others in the New Hampshire college, while three students from Watertown High stood but the merest fraction of a decimal point behind them.

Critics who attempt to declare Bay State schools have lost their old-time prestige and efficiency are well answered by the Dartmouth award.

We commend not only these boys for their success, as worthy of emulation, but also the high school teachers who guided them along the important earlier paths of learning.

Our French Friends Err

Pity Their Government Cannot See Result of Serving Alien British Self-Interests

We are fond of France and want to see her prosper and to be right all the time. The wonderful struggle of her common people during the late war, of her peasant soldiers and her workmen soldiers, was an inspiration.

Most of our people, grateful as they felt to France for her aid in our Revolutionary War, were compelled to believe, through our inability to read French and the necessity of acquiring knowledge of French history and French character from English sources, that the Frenchman had degenerated into a kind of lounge lizard, a little, mincing dancing master; that his government was unstable; that he himself was volatile as ether and unsteady as the waters, excitable, nervous, always jumping around and never making any progress.

We have found the Frenchman, however, to be the same sort who conquered Europe during the French revolutionary wars and who furnished Napoleon his wonder-working soldiers. We have found that Paris was not France, and that for the real type of Frenchman we must go into the provinces and otherwise study French civilization.

But, unfortunately, the French government, having deceived the French people concerning Russia and Germany, just as our government has deceived us, especially concerning Russia, is now acting apparently under orders of French bankers and financial exploiters. So France is swabbing around, disturbing the peace of Europe and enabling the British, under Lloyd George's skilful leadership, to cultivate the enemies which France has made and to restore the old friendship which British conduct had lost.

It is a pity that the French government cannot see how it is all coming out, and that, to serve alien British self-interest, France is in danger of that enforced isolation which duly spelled war and ruin for Germany.

Vital Problems at Home

Embarkation of the Nation Into Foreign Politics Clashes Leaves Unsolved Our Own Critical Issues

On May 10, Dr. Clarence Cook Little, the new President of the University of Maine, made an interesting and very significant statement in his Inaugural Address when he said that the State public universities must provide means of spreading higher learning farther and farther among our population in order to meet the increased demands upon our intelligence made by our foreign relations and the increasing difficulties of international politics.

It is one of the tragedies of our embarkation upon foreign politics that we are burdening the minds and the intelligence and the time and energy of our people with problems that are foreign to ourselves. We are leaving unsolved our own vital, difficult and almost unsolvable domestic problems, which, if they continue to be unsolved, will sap the very foundation of our democratic Republic.

Consider the political situation today with respect to the League of Nations and the Four-Party Treaty. On account of these two foreign problems, these two vital, fundamental alien questions, the time and energy of our people cannot be obtained in any action which will take place in the coming November.

The parties are so hopelessly divided into factions by these international political problems that questions of labor and capital, of production and consumption, of transportation, of agriculture, of the concentration of wealth, of the power of privilege and organized capital, of the freedom of speech and the press, of the freedom of labor to negotiate upon a basis of the equality with capital, of conservation of natural resources, of the cost of living—all these questions so important, so vital to the future of the Republic and to the happiness and prosperity of our people because we deal and are obliged to struggle over foreign politics in which we are asked, not to be the good Samaritan, but the big, hulking, over-fat victim of lean and hungry wolves who are howling around our feeble fences and who will not let us ride their predatory habits and settle down to regular labor.

We have added to our voting population all its women, unaccustomed to political thinking, ignorant of political questions, all its children from the beginning; and then oblige the burden of political education we add problems which are absolutely beyond intelligent solution even by the wisest, the most educated and politically experienced people.

It will take us a generation at least to become equal to the nations of Europe in handling foreign questions. We shall always be subject to propaganda and deception until we become a linguistic people and are able to read the language of the nations with whom we deal and are obliged to take the view of one nation, namely, the English-speaking nation of Great Britain, concerning all the other countries with whom we have relations, simply because we cannot read and write German, French, Spanish, Russian and Italian.

Today the country is not shocked at the confession of one of its Presidents, himself for years the head of a great university, that he obtained all his views of European politics from an English newspaper. It is not shocking that the people when people WILL be shocked when they hear ANY intelligent citizen make such a confession, much more a President, shall we be intellectually prepared to plunge into the turmoil, the intrigue, the false promises and the political chicanery.

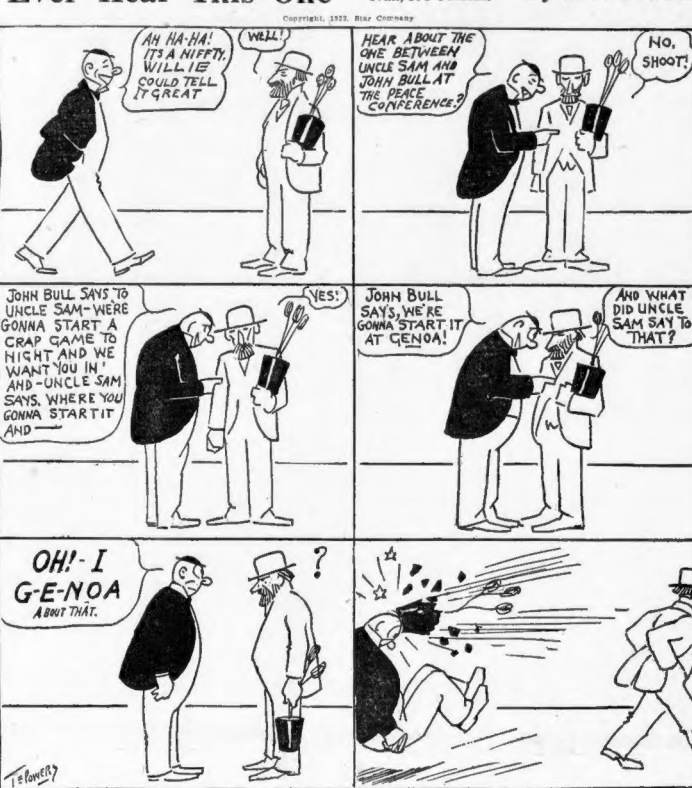

The burdening of our people with these foreign questions is a tragedy and some of our historians may point some day to the Four-Party Treaty as the beginning of the end of an experiment in a democratic Republic.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON SPACE MYSTERIES

By Garrett P. Serviss
"Why the endless discussion as to whether time and space are not infinite? They do not exist; they are mere conceptions, are they not? It can never come to pass that things shall not stand out from one another in the vast distance, or events precede or succeed one another in the order of occurrence, and that it is not time and space mean, is it not? What is it, then, that separates these various objects, that they are not one? I have learned to know through other sense impressions, at different distances away? It is space."

AS I look out of a window I see: First, the window sash, ten feet above me, then some trees across the road; then a field of grass; beyond that trees again; steadily blue sky with white clouds. Since I do not perceive that the air or the window sash might as well not exist as far as my sight is concerned.

What is it, then, that separates these various objects, that they are not one? I have learned to know through other sense impressions, at different distances away? It is space.

Letter to the Editor

Old Age Pensions
Editor Boston American:
I want to express my gratitude to the light by which I see the timely and forceful editorial on Old Age Pensions, which appeared on your editorial page of recent date.

It certainly inspires those who are interested in this much needed and desirable legislation to greater efforts. I anticipate that the time will soon come when the needy old will receive just consideration from the generation which they have sacrificed so much for in its development, and that the gleam of peace and happiness will replace the shadow of fear and dread on their countenances and that the brand of patriotism will be permanently elicited.

This great movement is being ably conducted and financed by the Fraternal Order of Eagles. All religious, fraternal, social, civic and labor organizations are being urged to lend their assistance by affixing through their committees and their central bodies now being organized in most every city.

STILL DRAWING CROWDS
An impatient skeptic has asked whether this year's Mr. Bryan has faith in the stork and believes there is a Santa Claus. We do not care to hazard an opinion as to that, but it is evident that he believes in other people taking the stork and Santa Claus seriously.

NATURAL HISTORY
The hornet is a cynic. A pessimistic thing. Mr. Bryan has faith in the stork and believes there is a Santa Claus. We do not care to hazard an opinion as to that, but it is evident that he believes in other people taking the stork and Santa Claus seriously.

GETTING ON
The women of Albania have given up trousers and in the work of the State police fully permitted to smoke in public.

ONE THING HE KNEW
The immigrant had to fill up the usual form. The first question was "Born?" Unhesitatingly he wrote down: "Yes."

Mama's Boy
The time is ripe for the mothers, and the grandmothers, too, to say nothing of the maiden aunts. But you about your young girls? Isn't it a bit hard on them?

Just about the time you begin to graduate—and begin being a belle—Mama goes to a new rest home and takes a good long face skinned and her hair combed and comes out—a belle herself.

And she isn't crazy to have Miss always around her, but she craves little schoolgirl notions come back to her. She is just as if marriage was the end of everything, when Mama knows better, well that it is not, but the beginning.

And then, all the young fellows of War, and the fighting Mayor of Boston met the other day in the latter's office in School street. There were no hostilities, however. They shook hands, talked a while, shook hands again, and then the curtain was rung down.

MRS. HARRIET J. BRADBURY, sister of George R. White, who left the city $50,000, paid her first visit to City Hall recently. She inspected the fund headquarters, and later took lunch with MAYOR CURLEY and GEORGE PHELAN, manager of the fund committee.

The gentlemen in the Legislative Council were not so friendly. SENATOR ALLEN to bring suit against the Sheppard-Towner law have failed to remember that the women in the Republican National Convention voted for Vice-President because they like the first Governor in the United States to urge maternity benefits for care of the expectant mother and the newborn babe.

They came all the way from Japan to see DR. FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, health commissioner of the city. DR. YUTAKA KANAKURA, assistant professor of the College of Medicine, Imperial University, Tokio, was a visitor recently.

Somebody's Birthday

By Dr. Charles Fleischer
Copyright, 1922, by Rex Company

It happened in this way. The man and the woman were traveling westward in a Pullman during the early Summer.

They were having their lower berth made up for the night. The man insisted that, as he was to sleep towards the side of the car, the window should be closed, for he would surely catch cold if the window were open.

The woman was equally insistent that the window should be kept airy, for, she said she would develop awful headache in that stuffy air.

As they were normal husband and wife, they "compromised"—on the basis of the woman's demand.

In the morning the man woke up with a case of the sniffles, and the woman was perfectly well. Each of them could say, "I told you so," until they discovered that there were double windows in their berth, and only the inner one had been lifted!

Thought Did It
And so the woman slept, and woke well, because she THOUGHT that the window was open. And the man caught the cold which he had EXPECTED, even though he had not been in an exposed place.

Stars and Stripes
"Jack" has a pronounced power strain somewhere inside of him, but his friend, Mike, is just the opposite. Last Summer the two were out walking during a heavy wind. "Oh, listen to that," ejaculated Jack, "it's a howl!"

"Yes," said Mike, thoughtfully, "but I believe you'd grow aish, too, if you were as full of green apples as I am."

One paper says peace has come at last—Germany has been heard in Harlem this week. What do you make, peace?

The Chinese are having a war among themselves. These fairlarks should have been rescraped by the Washington Conference.

It is said a fool is born every minute, but when you notice the chances that are taken at crowded congresses the average seems to be higher.

Nobody ever has to say "Stuck 'em up" to a girl who is wearing a new engagement ring.

Thinking makes it so; and that mental states and physical conditions are mutually influential.

Which is a very different thing from saying that mind has influence over mere matter.

Mere matter also has its influence over the mind. There is no denying its influence over itself. Potentially, thought is creative and constructive, or disintegrating and destructive.

Doubtless the war and its aftermath did frightful damage to the economic structure of the nations. But in our country, at least, we have been quick about largely because we imagined that we were.

Contagious Disease
And our imagination has proved itself a contagious disease. We shall continue to "enjoy poor people's health," economically, as long as we want to stay that way. We certainly shall not get well despite ourselves.

It reminds one of the everlasting groaner who went to his physician and asked to be treated for rheumatism. When assured that he had no rheumatism, he said that he knew it, but he expected the disease next Autumn.

A wise physician would have cured him by telling him that he had no rheumatism, but he had not been in an exposed place.

Masses and Matter
In the sense that we always connect "mass" with matter we also connect space with matter, and so perhaps we should be justified in affirming that there is no matter. This is the basis of our inability to grasp the conception of an infinity.

Whether or not anything is really gained for clearness of thought by limiting matter, and space under the name of a fourth dimension, the idea may be justified, as that of "mass" is justified by its mathematical consequences.

It is surely these mathematical consequences in treating time as an extension, and our thoughts about it in many ways, reasonable thoughts about space.

Parents Occupied Too Much Socially

TRUE people are rich girls—what a time they do have trying to find something like a husband who is brighter and the knows better how to do it, and then her conversation.

Here's one of them marrying a man three times her age, and going to live in a foreign country, because she wants a plain home, and not a palace like her father's.

Here's another running away and going to work in a factory—because she's homesick in the great mansion where her mother and father sleep—wherever they go.

Here's still another starting to tramp around the world with a friend—to get away from her parents and "bad" dinner.

Just about the time these young people of these poor little rich girls are young and beautiful and much admired—and clever and very rich.

How provoking it is to realize that you can't have any great gain without some sort of small sacrifice.

Now, there's this "Stay young till you're sixty" idea.
